FOURSCORE MORE BUTCH STEAMERS GERMANS COMING WILL CALL HERE

Of the 23 German diplomatic and consular representatives on the Dutch liner Rembrandt, only one was allowed to set foot on Hawaiian soil, it was learned today. There are between 70 and 80 more yet to come. The one individual who came ashore was P. W. von Hintze, German ambassador to China until that nation broke off diplomatic relations a few weeks ago. By special permission of the U. S. immigration authorities at this port, he was allowed to leave the ship and go ashore in company with Senator Luis G. Gahleitner, Spanish consul, acting for Germany since the United States declared war on that government. The others had to remain aboard. Armed soldiers were stationed at the gangplanks to keep them there.

According to P. A. Daum, general agent at Batavia for the Java Pacific Mail Line, who is aboard the Rembrandt and transacted business with the line's local agency, C. Brewer & Company, Ltd., this courtesy was much appreciated by von Hintze, as he had not expected so much after he learned of the declaration of war. Between 70 and 80 more.

Daum said that the present party of late diplomatic officials of Germany is only the first instalment. "There are 70 or 80 coming by the next boats of our line," he said. Are En Route to New York. On arrival in the United States the 28 Germans in the Rembrandt's party will be turned over to the Swiss consulate for transportation to New York by rail and thence to Germany via some neutral country. Will Take Neutral Liner. Daum said he cabled from Honolulu to New York and has received a reply that the Java Pacific service from Amsterdam to New York has not yet been put into effect. This means the Germans will either wait in New York until it is effective or will return to Germany via boats of other neutral countries than Holland. They have all been granted safe conduct by the Allied governments.

BIG LINES SNAP AT KUHIO WHARF

As a further report that Kuhio wharf, Hilo, is decidedly unsafe for vessels when heavy swells are running on the windward side of the Big Island, President James A. Kennedy of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company today gave the Star-Bulletin for publication a copy of a report received in the mail from Hilo, written by P. T. Phillips, Hilo agent of the company. The report, dated April 13, says in part: "Yesterday afternoon the heavy swell running on the windward side of the island began to make itself felt in the harbor. The Mauna Kea, ranging badly, had to take in her gangways and by this morning had broken one 12-inch, one 10-inch, and two 6-inch lines. We were unable to get out all of the Honolulu freight, overhauling some iron, while we will have to leave quite a lot of outgoing freight behind, being able to take only perishable freight and passengers' baggage."
